

Pattern Formation Of The Two-Phase Shallow Water Equations

Hidehori Yasuda

JOSAI UNIVERSITY, JAPAN

yasuda@math.josai.ac.jp

We developed a numerical method for lateral pattern formation. The two-phase shallow water equations with potential of phase separation is exploited for pattern formation. We proposed an invariant finite difference scheme which has a property of contact discontinuity preserving. Our method was applied to Ostwald ripening in thin films as a problem derived from fluid dynamics, quarantine of infectious disease in an abstract framework.